Course summary

This one-week course will give you the skills and knowledge you need to plan and deliver successful online English lessons. You will learn how to adapt your existing teaching skills to an online context and be introduced to the platforms, tools and resources that can be used for teaching online. This is a great course if you would like to expand your career opportunities outside the classroom and take advantage of the flexibility that being an online teacher offers.

This course is for:

- Teachers who want to set up as independent online tutors
- Anyone who wants to create their own 100% online school and build online courses
- Teachers who have to deliver online classes as part of a course
- Participants with an upper-intermediate (B2) language level or above.

Participants should bring their own laptop and any mobile device or tablet that they may use for teaching purposes.

What you will gain by attending the course:

- An increased understanding of the online teaching context and the pedagogical principles and methodologies that underpin it
- An increased ability to adapt face-to-face teaching techniques to online teaching
- Strategies for managing learners in one-to-one and group lessons online
- An increased ability to find and exploit online programmes and mobile apps to help learners develop language skills independently
- An increased ability to plan and design online lessons
- Increased opportunities for professional and career development, including ideas for promoting yourself and your school online

- Improved English language competences
